DANIELSON

At the undertaking rooms of A. F. Wood at 1 o'clock, Friday afternoon, funeral services for Emory C. Darling, who died at East Killingly, were conducted by Rev. A. E. Gallup of the Episcopal church. Burial was in Dayville cemetery. The bearers were Edward Peabody, George W. Jacques, Ernest Adams, William Warren, Claude Mearns and James P. Aldrich. There were beautiful floral pieces, including an especially choice one from the Asenby Products company, of East Killingly.

A family was being dispersed Friday, after the uncovering by State Officer Howard A. Elliott, Chief John McFarland and Deputy Sheriff Charles E. Ayer of their depredations at Attawaugan and at summer cottages on the shores of Alexander's lake.

Edward Mignault and his wife, Annie, were taken from the local police station at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon and later presented on a bench warrant, before Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin in the superior court at Putnam, as told in the news from that place this morning.

Three of their sons, ranging from 16 down to 12 years, are to be sent to state institutions. Another boy, Leo Barber, was released on probation after a hearing in the town court Friday morning. During Friday Adelard Robitaille was being held at the police station here until such time as the officials investigating the case file their formal charges against him.

The seven arrests that have attracted so much attention hereabouts followed a burglary committed at the store of Albert Gay at Attawaugan late Wednesday night. Information that came to the attention of State Officer Elliott put him on the trail of the Mignault family and eventually resulted in the arrests and on Friday, disposition of a majority of the cases.

The officers that quizzed the boys first taken into custody are a unit in declaring that these youngsters have an aptitude tied to a post. As they are qualified to compete for the championship of the world, and should be added on favorites. It has been said of some famous prevaricator of the past that he could lie by note. If this be true, the Mignault boys are a symphony orchestra when they start out to evade the truth. They were so rascally that inflated officials trying to drag the truth from their lips finally burst out laughing at the audacity of their untruthful statements. And the boys enjoyed a grin on their own account.

A distaste for truth in dealing with the officers of the law availed the Mignault boys nothing, however. Louis Mignault, 14, who can contradict himself at least twice with every word he speaks, and his younger brother, Joseph Mignault, 12, have been ordered by Judge W. Foster Woodcock committed to the state school for boys until they are 21 years of age. They will be taken to Meriden as soon as officials here can dispose of the attending cases. Leo Barber, Dayville, a youth of 14, was far less concerned in the series of robberies than his associates and he was placed on probation for a year. Attorney A. G. Bill to be probation officer. Harmond Mignault, oldest of the trio of brothers, and he is but 16, will answer to a charge of burglary and the recommendation made that he be committed to the state reformatory at Cheshire.

Officials were amazed at the boldness with which the boys have operated. They have twice burglarized the Gay store, from which goods valued at about $300 were taken. It is charged in the complaints against them. They broke into cottages at 10 lake, including the places owned by Henry J. Kosmaler of Attawaugan and Hester C. Koech, warden of Danielson. Officials feel that they have obtained no more than an outline sketch of operations that have extended over many months.

Mr. and Mrs. Mignault were arrested on a charge of receiving stolen goods. One of the Mignault boys says his mother told him to go with his brothers to the Gay store and get their underwear for the winter. Among the things taken from the Gay store were 20 pairs of overalls, shirts, gloves, cigars, cigarettes, candy and other things. Officers are also searching for a very liberal consignment of Jamaica ginger which it is known that the boys stole. When Officer Elliott appeared at the Mignault home Thursday morning to make a search of the place he received a fiery welcome from Mrs. Mignault. The Mignaults live near Alexander's lake at the place known for years as the Danvers home. Mrs. Mignault went to Officer Elliott with a broom handle and with all the vigor displayed by Babe Ruth in a world's series turn at bat. She was hitting a 1000 slug, conversationally and co-incidentally, and the officer felt that he was really a brave man after the encounter.

It developed during Friday that the Mignault boys were the subject of concern by educational authorities about two years ago and at the time there was a proposal to commit them to a school for delinquents, but another plan was adopted under which they were permitted to remain here and a further effort expended in trying to teach them in a Killingly school.

Following an operation performed for appendicitis at St. Vincent's hospital in Worcester, Thursday evening, it was stated Friday that Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, pastor of All Hallows church at Moosup, was critically ill. The operation revealed that Father McCarthy is suffering from peritonitis. His condition was regarded as serious Friday, but not beyond hope. Hundreds of his friends throughout this section of eastern Connecticut are as solicitous for his recovery as are the people of his own parish, by whom he is greatly beloved.

Rev. Simon Forester, M. S., of Hartford, provincial of the Missionary order of LaSalle, and Rev. Zoticque Chouard, M. S., of Fitchburg, Mass., are to preach the first two weeks of missions, opening Sunday at St. James' church. During these first two weeks the sermons are to be in French. During the following week a mission will be preached for the English-speaking people of the parish.

Killingly High school's football team will line up here against the East Green-wich team, representing Warwick, R. I. high school this (Saturday) afternoon. The K. H. S. team has been rapidly rounding into form during the past two weeks and is expected to make a good showing in today's game.

Several requests have come from farmers in surrounding territory that The Bulletin request hunters who will go ahead with the opening of the bird hunting season today to be careful not to destroy walls and fences and about setting forest fires by carelessly thrown matches, or cigar or cigarette stubs. As the years go by the "no hunting and fishing" signs are becoming more and more numerous, and this is chiefly due, farmers say, to the fact that so many hunters are careless and cause so much damage and loss to farmers.

Approximately $1,000 is to be expended in erecting a cement block wall along the front of the cemetery at South Killingly. The fence that formerly bordered the cemetery on the highway side has been removed. Money for the new cement block wall has been obtained by subscription, one donor giving $300. Teachers in the graded schools here will be at Putnam Monday to attend a teachers' institute that will be attended by about one hundred teachers from towns in this part of the county. A number of subjects will be discussed by educators from different parts of the state.

W. A. Burrows is seeking damages of $4,000 from Frank A. Davis in connection with Mr. Davis' operations on property which he bargained to buy from Mr. Burrows during the spring of this year. The matter received consideration at Friday's session of the superior court at Putnam, as told in the news from that city.

This is Civic Federation day. As in the days of the World war the slogan for today is "Do your bit!" Frederick E. Cunnison has been elected commander of the post of Veterans of Foreign Wars here. Mr. Cunnison was in the naval service of the United States during the Spanish-American war. Arthur Rainville is senior vice-commander, James Kelley, junior vice-commander, John F. Purvis, secretary-treasurer.

At a meeting of the town school committee for reorganization following the annual town meeting of last Monday, Frederick E. Cunnison, newly elected member of the board, was elected as chairman. Mrs. Agnes Paine was elected to succeed Sidney P. Marland as secretary.

And now comes the assessors with the usual announcement that it is time to file lists of taxable property in the town of Killingly. This may be done at any time during the present month.

Mrs. Horace F. Turner is to be the leader at a meeting of the W. C. T. U. to be held with Mrs. May S. Stone on Riverview next Tuesday afternoon. A number of Danielson men have planned to be on Providence today to witness the automobile races at Narragansett track.

Danielson churches will be represented at the Windham County Sunday school convention to be held in Brooklyn Monday next.

Crews of painters are engaged in painting state road fences hereabouts. The state police department has supplied Officer A. W. Williams, stationed here with a new Ford runabout to replace the motorcycle and sidecar formerly in use by the officer.

PUTNAM

Criminal matters occupied the greater part of the time at Friday's session of the superior court here and the first jury trial this fall was undertaken in the cases of Charles Drew and Edward Malvern, both of Newport, R. I., charged with breaking and entering the home of George Law at Thompson's station of the afternoon, Sunday, May 22, and stealing $101, money belonging to the East Thompson Baptist church, of which Mr. Law is treasurer. Drew and Malvern, both colored, were represented by Public Defender S. L. Torrey, with Attorney Joseph LeComte, colored, of Providence, as associate counsel, representing Drew. The accused had in each instance pleaded guilty to the charges against them.

Prior to the taking up of criminal business matters on short calendar were heard and at the end of this period the September civil term of court was adjourned without day.

At the short calendar session Attorney E. L. Darbie as counsel for the plaintiff in the case of W. A. Burrows vs. Frank A. Davis, both Danielson parties, was heard relative to establishing alleged damages to property belonging to Mr. Burrows in Danielson by acts alleged against Mr. Davis.

Attorney Darbie obtained judgment by default in this case on Friday of last week, when the defendant, nor counsel representing him appeared in court.

Friday Attorney Darbie went into details for the court of circumstances pertaining to an alleged agreement of Mr. Davis to buy certain property fronting on Railroad square in Danielson from Mr. Burrows. Attorney Darbie told the court that the spring of this year Mr. Davis came to Mr. Burrows and sought to buy property extending from Railroad square through to Water street in Danielson for the purpose, it was understood, of erecting a garage. Mr. Burrows finally agreed to sell the tract of land and buildings thereon for $7,500.

What the attorney described as a small sum was paid to him by Mr. Davis. It later appeared that Mr. Davis paid $400 and a bond for a deed was issued. Later Mr. Burrows endorsed a note of $500 for Mr. Davis, the note remaining unpaid, but it was contended that this note must be considered as a separate transaction and not necessarily as applying as a payment on the property in question.

Called to the witness stand, Mr. Burrows told of his conferences with Mr. Davis relative to selling the property and of his final agreement to dispose of it to Mr. Davis for $7,500. A bond for $25,000 was given. Some time thereafter Mr. Davis came to him, the witness said, and asked him for permission to remove some stones from a retaining wall fronting the property on Railroad square, Mr. Davis representing that he wanted the stones for capping a cellar wall, Mr. Burrows said, as he recalled their conversation, Mr. Burrows told Mr. Davis he might have some of the stones in the wall, but he was not further to disturb the property until the sale transaction was completed. Soon thereafter, Mr. Burrows went to Fort Washington, N. Y., for a visit with his grandson, who is in the army service as a major, and upon his return after a period of two weeks found that the wall had been removed and a deep excavation extending back from the where the wall had stood had been removed. Cutting away of the embankment has greatly damaged the property, as much as $4,500 to $5,000, the witness estimated.

A. Van Woodworth, Danielson, the next witness testified as to being familiar with the property. He said in his judgment the bank had been cut into for a depth of 25 feet and the property damaged at least $4,000. Similar estimates were given by Sidney S. Stone and Coeiner A. Young, both of Danielson men familiar with property values. Photographs of the property as it was before Mr. Davis began operations and as it is today were exhibited to the court. Mr. Davis having failed to carry out his alleged agreement to purchase the property, Mr. Burrows seeks damages. Judge Marvin told the jurors in the case, reserving decision as to the amount to be awarded.

Clarence Parker, 22, whose home is in Scituate, R. I., pleaded guilty to stealing a Jersey cow from Hyman Dressler, by whom he had been employed at Moosup. In explanation it was stated to the court that the theft occurred on July 25, Dressler, who is a meat dealer, had turned some cows out to pasture. At this time he had released Parker from employment and Parker being broke, went to the pasture and selected a cow that he said Dressler purchased of Peter Chabot of Wauregan for $10, took it over into Canterbury and sold it for $15. Parker used the money he obtained to buy a board bill he owed and then went to his mother's home in Scituate.

Parker was so perfectly open and frank in his confession that he won the good will of about every one in court. He told his story without any attempt at reservation and without attempt to shield himself. "I worked for Dressler for several years, since I was 14," he told Judge Marvin. Asked by the court if he had ever been arrested before, Parker said "yes" and explained that it was over speeding a horse. He got a laugh from
